This is a song inspired by what the earliest followers of Jesus must have felt, when they first went out in pairs to spread the news about Him. It's about facing the unknown--something we all do everyday. Anyway, God didn't send His Son into the world to condemn it, but rather to save it. That's some good news. I believe Jesus Christ is Lord, and that the wise still seek Him. Hope you do too, or that you will return. Peace,
Jim

East From River

Well we started walking east from the river.
Daylight dwindled on.
We tired walking so many miles.
Didn't know
If we could go on anymore.

Brother, Can you spare me an extra cake? Perhaps a glass of wine? Some for me and my brother in the Lord, who's become a friend of mine.

He said, I'll go with you everywhere,
Never worry about a thing.
Never worry what you'll eat or what you'll wear.
Give me your every care.

Man said where do you both come from on such a day. You look tired and weary. Come with me my house is along the way. You may eat and sleep.

He said, I'll go with you everywhere,
Never worry about a thing.
Never worry what you'll eat or what you'll wear.
Give me your every care.

And lo it is until the end of the age
Commanded now we are to go
Teach good news
of the Savior's love,
We'll never walk alone.

He said, I'll go with you everywhere,
Never worry about a thing.
Never worry what you'll eat or what you'll wear.
Give me your every care.
